Livelihood by Depression. ARTICLE No. 4.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, on Unemployment Relief. EDITOR'S INTRODUCTORY NOTE-(When by executive order of May 6, 1935; the President launched the vast works program with the present WPA as its key agency, not less than 40 federal agencies participated in it. These, witr their alphabetical names, lending to the New Deal a distinguishing characteristic, had been hastily organized to combat the emergency in 1933.

(The administration's ffirst move had been the President's message to congress on March 21, 1933, calling for three attacks upon the problem—the Civilian Conserfation Corpse for idle young men, the Public Works Administration for large-scale projects to put worgers into jobs, and the Federal Emergency Relief Administration for aiding state and local authorities in general direct relief.

(The CCC is the subject of the next installment of the President's emmentaries to his "Public Papers." In today's artcle the beginnings of the FORA and its development through various stages into the present WPA are narrated in President Roosevelt's own words taken from his five volumes, and never before published.)

In 1933, direct relief work was immediately necessary to feed and clothe millions of our destitute and unemployed citizens, whose resources and means of livelihood had completely vanished during the years of depression.

When I first took office, there existed little of importance either in the way of precedent or in factual knowledge to guide us in the formulation of an adequate policy of unemployment

Indeed, although the depression had continued for more than three years and the number of unemployed had gradually risen to more than 15,000,000 unemployable persons, the very Spain, Troskyites in Russia, and idea of federal aid to the needy had been stubbornly resisted by the then federal administration until the passage of the emergency relief and construction act approved July 21, 1932.

Even there, the measure of responsibility assumed by the olics, as well as Jews, in central federal government was slight. That statute, disregarding the Europe. then desperate financial condition of many states and cities, still assumed unemployment relief to be a matter of exclusively lo- ers while sitting behind the cal responsibility. The problem of unemployment was a national one—beyond the resources of states and municipalities, already overburdened by decreasing tax receipts and increasing indebtedness. Private phi-lanthropy was wholly inadequate to supplement local public relief

In accordance with my message, the congress passed the federal emergency relief act, approved by me May 12, 1933.

RELIEF POLICY EXPRESSED GOVERNMENT ATTITUDE The statute was expressive of the new government attitude.

First, it recognized that relief was a social problem to be ad-ministered by a social agency rather than by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, which was purely a financial agency.

Second, it provided for outright grants to states instead of the states, repayable out of future

Third, it definitely recognized that relief was not the complete responsibility of the states and their local political subdivisions, and that the federal government had its share of responsibility where local and state resources proved inadequate proved inadequate.

When, as governor of New York, I set up a temporary emergency relief administration in 1931, to administer state appropriations of money for direct aid to the localities, I appointed Harry L. Hop-kins as its head. When this new national agency was set up in 1933, I appointed him administra-

I want to congratulate you on your birthday."

This was the text in substance of one of the most unusual birthday greetings ever delivered in Savannah, being the President of the United States on the telephone, talking to Sidney Hillman, of New York, who was a guest at a hotel here.

Mr. Hillman is one of the country's best-known labor leaders and was a leading figure in the recent NRA. His birthday was Wednesday.

Tobacco Limits Reported

WASHINGTON, March 26 .- (AP) Increases in cotton and tobacco quotas under the new farm act won approval of the senate today along with a number of other amendments to the agriculture ad-

The quota increases amounted to four per cent for cotton and tobacco above total previously announced by the secretary of agriculture.

Senators said this added about 1,000,000 acres to the cotton acreage of about 25,000,000 acres, and about 28,000,000 pounds to the flue-cured tobacco quota of 705,-

WORSE THAN DEFEAT

"We know that in war there are no winners." Those words were spoken by Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain before the British house of commons on Thursday. He voiced thereby a truth which every man of today knows full well. No one who can remember the days of 1918, or who can read with understanding of that time of horror and of shame, can doubt the truth of his terse statement.

In modern war the victor is the loser and the defeated are destroyed. In modern war triumph is a will-o'-the-wisp of frustration and those who lose must die. Either individually or as a people.

In modern war the whole world, even those who mistakenly believe themselves neutral, must ultimately pay the price.

Yet, despite the Chamberlain truth, there remains another truth, still greater.

There are worse things than defeat, even though defeat is death.

There is loss of freedom, surrender of manhood and abandonment of honor. These, beyond peradventure, are worse than war, worse than defeat, worse than death,

There is truth itself, too precious to be foregone, even though man immolates himself as a sacrifice in her defense.

Only when mankind as a whole shall know, with the burning flame of conviction, that there are these things inestimably more to be dreaded than war-even a war of defeat-shall there be the awakening of that new hope which a despairing world now seeks.

NATIONAL COTTON WEEK

National Cotton Week, sponsored by the Cotton-Textile Institute, will be observed this year from May 30 to June 4. Its objective will be the sale of more cotton goods and the consequent speeding of national economic recovery.

The special week gains added significance this year because of the recent formation, at a meeting held in Atlanta, of the Cotton Consumption Council. This group includes in its personnel representatives of the cotton manufacturers and of the principal chain store groups, in addition to cotton farmers and cotton state officials. Its purpose is to increase cotton consumption and thus aid in reducing the present crop surplus with its depressing effect upon prices for raw cotton.

The council has announced that its first objective will be the doubling of cotton goods sales during this year's National Cotton Week, as compared to the total sales during the week

The importance of the council's movement and the extent of its possible beneficial effect for the cotton farmer is realized when it is revealed that the 8,500 dry goods, notion and variety stores affiliated last year sold $600,-000,000 worth of cotton goods. The 37,000 chain food stores in the council last year consumed some 500,000,000 square vards of cottons as package material for grocery items, while the national drug and shoe chains had an estimated volume, for the year, of $75,000,000 in sales of cotton products.

Special efforts, through advertising, special sales and other channels, will be exerted by the council to make National Cotton Week of 1938 the greatest period of cotton product sales in history. The co-operation of the consuming public is, of course, essential to achievement of this goal. Particularly in the south, the home of cotton, that co-operation should be given eagerly and without stint.

LIECHTENSTEIN, UNAFRAID

Consider the sad case of Liechtenstein, 65,square-mile principality sandwiched between Germany and Switzerland. In the midst of anschluss, ultimatums, alarums hither and yon throughout Europe, this little land has passed almost unnoticed in the news.

However, the Liechtenstein diet last week served notice to the world it had unanimously decided to maintain both its independence and its treaties. This might be deemed all to the good, except that the 12,000 citizens of the principality constitute the only nation in Europe which is totally disarmed. The country maintains a watch on its banks of the Rhine with one soldier, and he a wax museum piece, while two policemen constitute the armed forces. Liechtenstein has joined Switzerland in a monetary and customs union, but remains politically independent, with Switzerland under no legal obligation to defend the borders of the principality. The country is not a member of the League of Nations and no one guarantees its independence or neutrality.

From 1815 to 1866 Liechtenstein formed part of the German Confederacy, severing the tie when its "army" of 70 men returned home after fighting for Austria in the war with Prussia. The "army" two years later disbanded.

However humorous the action of the diet may seem to some, the world cannot but doff its hat to these splendid people. In the face of the world's most reckless war machine they throw the gauntlet, defenseless and unarmed,

A NEW ORGANIZATION

A group of so-called "little businessmen" have organized a permanent body as an outgrowth of the recent presidential conference, which resulted in promulgation of a program and a generous amount of discord. The new body will be called the Nation's Smaller Business Conference.

Several questions immediately present themselves in an examination of this conference. The smaller businessman has always been renresented as an inarticulate member of he national economy; as being in much the same position as the consumer. But it must be remembered that in this group are included those people who probably wield gretter influence on the voter than any other section of the populace. Their inarticulateness is but a comparative term, for their influence on the policies of the nation is none the less strong. Their power strikes at the source of political strength, the polls.

One of the announced purposes of the conference is to afford adequate means for owners and operators of businesses to present their points of view to the government. On the surface this is excellent, yet it is difficult to conceive of any group of this character being abie to agree on their points of view any more than it would be possible for any similar group of voters to reconcile their outlook and beliefs.

Their second purpose is more reasonable; to promote better understanding between smaller and larger business, employer and employe and between business and other economic groups.

The third purpose is to study and analyze the "economic import" of existing and proposed legislation; to support that which would "advance the economic welfare of smaller business and the nation" and oppose that which it is judged would prove injurious.

This raises a most serious question. While it cannot be doubted that this action is the right of the conference, actually the result will be the formation of another pressure group which will further remove legislative action from the concept of the founders of this nation. The influence of pressure groups on national and state legislation has reached proportions that are alarming. Happily, much of this interference with proper legislative debate and conclusion has been repulsed by the national congress in recent months, indicating a return to some measure of freedom in debate and ballot within legislative halls. This is the American concept of government. Any other will lead to a loss of liberty just as surely as liberty has been lost in other lands where pressure groups slowly strangled untrammelled delibera-

Small business is already well organized for practical purposes in trade associations, and it is to this field they will limit themselves if they heed the lessons of other nations. There has been too much interference with government and too much interference by government in this country. It is time business regained its own enterprise, showing government the way rather than having government lead business by a halter. This last means regimentation and, eventually, socialism.

A SPIDER'S INVITATION

Japan, possessor now of a large slice of Chinese territory, largely ruined by intensive warfare, finds itself unable to finance the reconstruction of the blighted area and invites foreign capital to invest more money in the Nipponese-controlled sections. The island empire promises to keep the "open door."

Foreign capital has already too high investment in the Chinese territories, much of it lost through the destruction of property and purchasing power and opportunity. It is slightly ludicrous to conceive of foreign capital plowing more money through Japan's "open door," with Japan holding firm hand on the door knob. The Nipponese promise "equality of treatment" towards all nationalities. The same treatment given the Chinese, no doubt. Japan has a tiger by the tail and can't let go. Let them hold the tiger, if they can, by their own resources. The result will be interesting and educational.

The condition has arisen through middle Europe whereby a fellow must keep the radio going 24 hours a day to know what nationality

COULD YOU USE SOME COTTON EXPERIMENTALLY?

(From the Columbia State.) The Department of Agriculture has cotton and cotton products to be supplied free to govern-mental agencies, educational institutions and nonprofit organizations interested in experimenting with and in using cotton for other than its normal purposes. Appropriate agencies wishing to receive supplies are asked to write the marketing section, AAA, Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., prior to July 1.

In a recent publication the marketing section lists a number of extraordinary purposes to which cotton is being put experimentally or practically. Cotton cloth is serving as a membrane for bituminous highway surfacing, as linings, in conjunction with other materials, for ditches, cuts, fills, levees and revetments, or any other construction for protection against flowing water and erosion as protective covering for seed beds, nursery seedlings, and fruit-curing platforms, as wrapping for bales for cotton, as roof and sidewall material for buildings, and in mats for the curing of concrete.

This free cotton is but one manifestation of the earnest and intelligent efforts being made by government and by industry to discover and to develop additional markets for the south's great crop. The old days of oratorical "save-themovements are over, or should be. The approach to farm problems is becoming more scientific than vocal. Therefore the cotton farmers and all farmers have good reason for believing the future will be better than the past has

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER

ARTHUR MORGAN AND TVA WASHINGTON, March 25.—
Arthur E. Morgan, ousted chairman of the TVA, for whom the President invented a novel and slightly unpleasing sort of treason trial, is generally regarded as sure to come out on top in the forthcoming investigation of doings in the Tennessee Valley.

He may succeed in proving his charges against his colleagues, Dr. Harcourt A. Morgan and David E. Lilienthal. If he can successfully impugn their integrity, he will win. But the numerous and vociferous conservative defenders who have lined up behind Arthur Morgan should be warned that some rather funny mud will also be thrown at their hero.

Arthur Morgan is a man of great ability, high moral integrity and sincere purpose. His past record is remarkable, both for achievement and for idealism. But if the charges that will be made against him are well grounded—and it is asserted they are grounded in his own memoranda from among the TVA papers—there does seem to be some foundation to the accusation that he was a trifle hard to

The truth is that Arthur Morgan appears to have been an incurable arts and crafts man, to whom truth and beauty occasionally meant more than efficient administration.

PROJECTS FROM LAPUTA From the moment when the three directors of the TVA first met, at the Willard hotel one hot afternoon in the spring of 1933, Arthur Morgan had his occasional vagaries. For example, it is declared that, rather early in TVA history, when the agency's or-ganization was far from complete, Arthur Morgan demanded the establishment of a project to study the succession of authority through the ages. And when the other directors demanded further this proposal, he is understood to have explained that he wanted information on the transmission of control in such associatins as Swedish co-operatives and Greek city states, in order to see whether earlier precedents would serve the TVA.

accused of having authorized or asked for a report on the ethics of real estate sales—a curious and interesting subject, but one of little applicability in the first hectic period of the TVA's establishment.

One document which will almost certainly be presented to the congressional investigators of TVA is a proposed code of ethics for the TVA staff, drawn up by Arthur Morgan in July, 1933. It is stated that he attempted to get the whole staff, including his fellow directors, to sign their names at the bottom of this windy, somewhat high-flown document, thus formally committing themselves to frankness, candor and other desirable practices in all their deal-

If this document and the others in the possession of Arthur Morgan's enemies are as described, they are all but certain to lay the ousted chairman open to ridicule. On the evidence, there is in them too strong a trace of the University of Laputa, where Gulliver saw learned men trying to capture sunbeams in cucumbers, and inventing methods to plough fields by burying figs and dates in them and turning swine in to root up the sweet fruits.

THE SEEDS OF DISCORD Arthur Morgan's enemies will charge that the first discord in the TVA arose from his Laputan tendencies. The assertion is made that the August, 1933, meeting of the other two directors, at which TVA activities were roughly departmentalized in Arthur Morgan's absence, occurred after one of his vagaries.

The effort to organize TVA was still in progress then, and his colleagues were distinctly angered to receive from him a long tele-gram announcing that he had been conferring with Massachusetts Institute of Technology authorities on the transmission of power by vacuum tube. He asked for a meeting of the board at which the M. I. T. men could describe this highly experimental process. His request was flatly refused, and the rebellious meeting took place

From that meeting must be dated the division within the TVA. Messrs. Lilienthal and Harcourt Morgan did not quarrel openly with Arthur Morgan for a long time thereafter. Indeed, until the spring of 1936, all TVA board votes were unanimous, but there were sorts of internal squabbles.

One concerned Arthur Morgan's desire to use selected young married couples from the Tennessee mountains as TVA workmen, and to subject them to a course of careful advance training, including, it is declared, instruction in married happiness. Another centered around his impulsive effort to appoint a minor executive of the Southern Bell Telephone Company as personnel director of the TVA. And still another was caused by his speech, in November, 1933, before a University of Tennessee conference of agricultural agents, in which he was reported as advocating a separate coinage for the Tennessee Valley.

THE REAL ISSUE Of course, these vagaries of Arthur Morissue. His fundamental quarrel with Messrs. Lilienthal and Harcourt Morgan concerned their aggressive power policy, which led straight to public ownership without admitting that objective.

And the fundamental issue of the present controversy is not the doings of any one TVA director, but the President's method of handling the whole problem. First, he permitted a crippling quarrel to continue for more than two years in one of the most important agencies of his administration. And then he attempted to settle it by waving his personal wand. The result is an unholy mess.

FAIR ENOUGH Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Red-Headed Daughter

you know from what seed the wise-crack grow? Years ago I knew a small boy who never missed an opportunity to belittle his older brother. If the brother stood on his head, or hung from a limb by his knees, or skipped a rope, or otherwise performed in the presence of watching adults, the small boy yelled words of ridicule and acid criticism.

His little bosom was filled with envy. Knowing that all eyes were turned upon his brother, and none at all watching him, he used the natural and universal antidote for the gall and wormwood

He ridiculed and belittled the performer in a frantic effort to save his own prestige—to build himself up by pulling his rival

Have you ever wondered why people so eagerly point out the faults and sins of their fellows?

It isn't because they are horrified. They are doing what the small boy did. They cry: "What a wicked person she is!" But they mean something more than that. They are saying, in effect: "Observe how good I am compared to that wicked person." The great-hearted, the poised and secure, the somebodies who are sure of themselves never ridicule and belittle others. They feel no need of proving themselves important. The wise-crack is a means of showing off. As the bully twists a smaller boy's arm to win applause for his own strength, so the wise-cracker hurts another person's feelings to feed his own vanity and make himself seem important. It works, of course. You always feel a thrill of pride and triumph when the audience laughs at your wit. But you pay a price for your little victory, for your victim never forgives you.

The Chinese and Japs aren't the only ones who value "face."

The one you hurt might forgive you if nobody else heard your gibe, but to humiliate him in the presence of others is an offense beyond pardon. Better not do it, Honey. It isn't smart to act smart if it costs you too much.

Question Box On the Bible

By W. L. PETTINGILL.
THE REVIVED ROMAN EMPIRE Will you please tell us the meaning of the words, "And I saw one of his heads as it were wounded to death: and his deadly wound as healed," in Revelation 13:37.

The Roman empire is presented symbolically in the opening verses of the chapter you have cited. The head which was 'wounded to death" is the imperial form of government which was in existence when the Roman empire fell. Rome had tried seven different forms of government symbolized by the "seven heads" of Rev. 13:1. But the imperial form was the one that was wounded to death. In Rev. 13:3 we have the restoration of the empire as such which will be made up of 10 kingdoms constituting a federated empire. These ten kingdoms are the ten horns the beast. The point is that

Washington Girl Holds Two-Up Lead at Turn at Augusta.

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 25 .- (AP) Long drives and sure putts brought victory today to Helen Dettweiler of Washington, D. C., in finals of the eighth annual Augusta's woman's open golf tournament.

Long distance work off the tees and equally smooth work on the carpets turned the trick for Miss Dettweiler. She consistently outdrove Miss Bauer, a former Augusta winner, and topped off her performance by canning a half-dozen putts ranging in distance from 8 to 12 feet.

Miss Bauer's erratic work start-ed on the long second of the Forest Hills course but the handicap she inflicted with an unplayable lie was dissapated as Miss Dett-weiler, uncertain with her approaches, needed a six for a halve. Dettweiler out in front for the first time, a lead which she sucsfully protected the remainder war.

THE PARIS ORGANIZATION.

His Palais des Sports is near the foot of the huge Eiffel tower and also near the River Seine. It made me gasp when I saw it I had no idea it was so large or so comprehensive.

His Palais des Sports has no idle days. In his office, as we talked, came girl skaters, fighters, bullfighters, wrestlers-managers of this and that.

At last there was time for a look. In the big arena there were several hunderd people enjoying ice skating. That night there was to be a great ice show. There would be skating until noon the next day. Then the ice was gone and the arena made nament, each carding 69-72-71-74. ready for a wrestling show. They were assigned top weight of 119 pounds for the mile-and-eighth classic marking the end of the racing season here.

That's his arena. He also has there great political gatherings, huge dinners and the like. In addition, he puts on outdoor spectacles which pay him money.

His ring is unique. The cover is hoisted to the dome of the building when not in use. When it comes down over the ring it is lighted in a better fashion than those of the Madison Square Garden rings in New York. In addition, a special clock, invented by Dickson, keeps time for the boxing. The fighters cannot see it. There is a clock on each of the four sides of the square ring top. The clocks start with a fight and never stop. During the one-minute rest period the hands point to a blank space and then emerge for three minutes of travel while the round is being fought.

Dot Kirby Is Trying To Quit Slicing Ball By Dorothy Kirby-

PINEHURST COUNTRY CLUB, March 25 .- I arrived in Pinehurst this afternoon just in time to see Vic Ghezzi take the top prize of $1,000. That is pretty good money for three days' work. Ghezzi and Cooper, and Paul Runyan were playing the 18th hole as we walked up.

I thought we would never get here from Augusta, for we took a friend's advice and tried to take a short cut and wound up several miles out of our way. There was a large crowd following the matches here.

I ran into Patty Berg who, by the way, just won the medal tournament that was held at Southern Pines Club. However, Patty is not going to be on hand for the tournament here next She left this afternoon to play in an exhibition match which is to be played in Greenville, S. C., tomorrow afternoon. Also in the match will be Jane Cothran, Virginia Guilfoil and Kathryn Hemphill. The rest of the girls will come on over here to play.

To change the subject, I would like to have stayed in Augusta this afternoon and have seen the finals of that tournament, between Helen Dettweller and Jean Bauer. However, I just heard that Helen Dettweiler won by a score of three up and two to play. To get back to the pros. The score which Ghezzi made today was a record by about seven strokes, for he had a 279. The record was new from the standpoint of playing on grass greens. Two hundred and seventy-six was the lowest score up until today, but that was shot on sand greens. Not so long ago they had sand greens here but they are grass now. Paul Runyan finished second for a sum of $600. And Ed Dudley came in third. After the matches were over there was a trick-shot artist, Jack Redmond, who was certainly showing off. He could make that ball do almost anything he wanted it to. I wish he could show me a trick and make go straight. It looks as if anybody could quit slicing a ball but it seems as though I can do nothing about it. By the time we start Monday I hope to have accomplished the task of hitting a straight ball.

With the president of the Southwith the president of the Southern league looking on, Atlanta and Savannah battled for 11 innings today. Then in the 11th, a relief pitcher's error gave the Crackers two runs, another error let in a third run and Dewey Williams a bit later hit a home run liams a bit later hit a home run with the bases loaded. The Crackers won the ball game, 10 to 5. It had been quite a game go-ing into the eleventh, Bill Beckman, who had pitched good ball, departed in the sixth with the score deadlocked at three-all.

John Pezzullo, the former Indian, took over, and for the next five innings the burly southpaw allowed only two hits. He gave up two runs in the eleventh after the Crackers had iced the game. Farrar, a pinch hitter, singled to drive in the runs.

MAN OF HOUR.

But Pezzullo was the man of the hour. He hit a long double over the corner of the right field stands to start his own rally in the eleventh. Mauldin flied out, but Mailho walked. Chatham hit a short roller to the pitcher, who threw wild at first. Pezzullo and Mailho scored and Chatham went to third. Bolton walked. Hill was safe on the second baseman's error and Chatham scored. Rubeling was safe on the shortstop's bobble, and the bases were filled.

Williams, the rookie catcher, who had gone hitless, found one of Atwater's pitches to his liking and bounced a homer off the corner of the right field stands. He's a right handed hitter and it was quite a wallop.

Pezzullo came up again after Rucker grounded out and singled sharply to center, giving him two hits in the same inning.

Mauldin forced Pezzullo to end the onslaught. The Crackers finished up with President Trammell Scott, who drove down today with Mrs. Scott, who is attending the garden show here, was impressed by the spirit

American Owned and Bred Horse Takes 100th Grand National.

AINTREE, England, March 25. (A)-Running on his heart with a 17-year-old kid on his back, Battleship today won an heroic "All-America" victory in the 100th Grand National Steeplechase to take a place alongside War Admiral as a worthy son of mighty Man o' War.

They said he'd sink in Becher's Brook. They said he was a pony out of his class. They started him at 40-1. Yet he carried the rose and silver colors of Mrs. Marion duPont Scott, of Montpelier, Va., wife of the screen actor, Ran-dolph Scott, near the front all the McNally's Royal Dan-Maguire's Workman was far back for third place in the field of 36. The kid on Battleship's back was Bruce Hobbs, little American-born apple-cheeked boy who was raised in a grain box. His father trained Battleship and two weeks ago decided the boy should ride him. That decision won the That decision won the taken to England at the age of two after his father had handled F. Ambrose Clark's horses at Westbury, L. I., for 20 years, made his mistakes, mastered them and then whipped his mount home like a veteran twice his years.

There are a lot of "firsts" report about this race, witnessed by a crowd estimated at 250,000. It was the first time a father-son. trainer-jockey combination had produced a winner. In 1935, how-ever, Reynoldstown was owned by Major Noel Furlong and ridden to victory by his son, Frank. It was the first time a horse actually bred and raced in America ever won the jumping classic. It was the first time a lad so young had ridden the winner.
The only other American-bred horse ever to win the race was the California-foaled Rubio in 1908 and he was owned by an Englishman. Foreign-bred jumpers carried to victory the Ameri-can-owned silks of F. Ambrose Clark in 1933, Charles Schwartz n 1926 and Stephen Sanford in

Before the race even started there was something dramatic about this American combination. Mrs. Scott, a sister of William duPont Jr., himself a noted horseman from Wilmington, Del., ar-rived only a couple of hours beore the race. She'll return on the Queen Mary Wednesday.

Three heavily backed horses were among the 13 that finished the four miles, 856 yards. James Rank's Cooleen, second last ear, was fourth this time. J. B. year, was fourth this time. J. B. Snow's American-owned Dela-chance was fifth and Arthur Sainsbury's Blue Shirt, the fasixth, Hopeful Hero eighth and the Atlantic, and the answer is the same.

MAN O' WAR'S SON | Ex-Tech Gridder Mate | TIME OUT! By Chet Smith Of Battleship's Owner

AINTREE, England, March 25 .- Tonight the talk had shifted for the moment from world war to Man o' War, dad of Battleship, today's American-bred and owned winner of the 100th Grand National Steeplechase. And down on a farm near Lexington, Ky., the great turf king of another day is probably at this moment giving the British a thunderous horse laugh. The mighty stallion, whose offspring, War Admiral, is current champion of the American turf, is not listed in the English Blue Book of racing, due they say over here, to some technicality in breeding. Battleship, a 11-year-old, didn't run like he was bothered by any technicality today. Battleship is owned by

after buying it in 1934. Mrs. Scott is the wife of Randolph Scott, the he-mannish movie actor, who attended Georgia Tech one term (1919) and was a substitute end on the Tech football team. Randy is a Charlotte (N. C.) boy and married Mrs. Scott, the former Marion du Pont, sister of William du Pont, the owner of Rosemont and other famous horses, two years ago. The Grand National is a grand show. A quarter of a million people were there, nearly five times the number which annually attend the Kentucky Derby (beg pardon, Darby). And yet, I'll take the Churchill Downs classic for my hoss race. The Blue Grass feature sort of tugs at one's heart in a way that no other sporting event can do.

Battleship's victory was popular with the bookies. Had Blue Shirt, the favorite, won, some of them would have lost more than their shirts.

By PAUL MICKELSON.

NEW ORLEANS, March 25.—(P)—From out of the shadows of desperate illness and shattered dreams has marched old Connie Mack make the grandest comeback of the spring baseball season. The 75-year-old patriarch's comeback is Last fall the curtain seemed to be falling slowly but surely. As he faded, his spirit flickered, too, and it was certain old Connie was on his last mile. Even his oldest and closest cronies shook their heads and advised him at least to give himself what small chance he had left by surrendering the active managership of the down-and-out Philadelphia Athletics.

But old Connie fooled them all, possibly even himself. He struck out the side with the bases loaded in the ninth. And today he's back at his familiar post, his head buzzing with schemes to land at least another world championship and his long arm waving his boys home with his inevitable scorecard. He's even getting fat-that is fat for such a lean man as Connie—and now weighs 142 pounds, the heaviest he has been in nine years.

"GOT IT LICKED."

"Doggone it," says Connie as he began his 38th year as leader of the A's, "I've got it licked. I'm coming now and maybe we'll still have some fun winning a pennant

Of course, Connie has been saying the same thing without get-ting any place since he broke up his championship team of 1929 through '31. And surely, he can expect nothing better than a sec-ond-division ball club this year against such competition as yankees, Tigers, White Sox and Indians. Yet, the dope is his ball club will fool a lot of people this season. For the first time in years, he actually has spent some money on his team and when Connie the three for the deciding game of the d Yankees, Tigers, White Sox and Indians. AINTREE, England, March -(A)-The daily double at Aintree race track today paid the fabulous sum of 5,062 pounds ($25,310) for a 10 shilling ($2.50) ticket.

Only one man, whose name was not made public, bought a ticket coupling Battleship. winner of the grand national, and Barbadeche, which won the Bickerstaffe plate on the same program. Barbadeche was held at 100 to 8 odds by the bookmakers and more than 55 to 1 in the totalisator. Battleship started at 40 to 1.

The payoff broke the previous record for daily doubles on British totalisators, which was 4,679 pounds for 10 shillings, established at Man-chester a year ago.

$17,000 Bond Theft Nets Crook Nothing

A thief who lifted a wallet containing $100 from the pocket of an unsuspecting Atlantan yesterday had it all over one who stole $17,000 in bonds from a Canton woman's car. He had the cash, but the bond thief might just as well have taken a sheaf of blank papers, for the bonds are non-negotiable.

The bonds were stolen from the auto of Mrs. E. R. Wood-bury, of Canton, late Thursday night on Barnes street. The wallet was taken from the pocket of H. Mazin, who told police he missed the wallet after he was jostled by a man who turned and ran as he boarded a street car at Peachtree and Marietta streets. Mrs. Woodbury, however, said her bonds—including an $11,500 mortgage note, $300 in government bonds. and $5,000 in insurance policies —were of value only to herself.
The locked door of her parked automobile was broken open, she said.

Thirty Chinese Planes Razed In Air Battle

SHANGHAI, March 26.-(Saturday) -(P)-Japanese declared today they had destroyed 30 Chinese fighting planes shooting down 20 of them, in a terrific air battle over Kweiteh on the central front.

The Japanese acknowledged the Chinese air strength was the most formidable they had yet encountered in the Lunghai corridor fighting.

They said their own losses were not yet known. Chinese planes were aloft and apparently forewarned, a Japanese communique reported, when three Japanese squadrons neared Kweiteh, in Honan province along the vital east-west Lunghai railroad.

It said a furious 30-minute battle ensued in which the Japanese planes, the number of which was not disclosed, were 'outnumbered two to one.

Besides the 20 Chinese planes shot down in the air battle, the Japanese said, a hangar at the Kweiteh airdrome was demolished and ten grounded planes were wrecked. The Japanese declared the Chinese air armada included Russian bombers.

MY DAY

By Eleanor Roosevelt

SEATTLE, Wash., Thursday.-Today I received a letter from a lady who begs me to correct my statement that I have been to Seattle four times "in a year and a half." She has kept tabs on me and says I have been here four times in a year. She is quite correct. I can only add that I hope

I may continue to find it possible to come as often in the years to come.

Yesterday afternoon, my daughter introducedome to the audience in the civic auditorium, which made me think that some time I would probably introduce her, so I'd better begin to store up anecdotes which will be useful under those circumstances. My son, James, introduced me to the convention of Young Democrats last summer and seemed to find it even more difficult than Anna did. So, if the children are becoming so efficient and active, I'd better be preparing my own

The Y. W. C. A. and the women's clubs worked with my daughter's home-makers' club yesterday. I felt it was one of the most constructive methods of explaining this country's domestic workers' situation. I feel sure everybody left the meeting with a better and more sympathetic understanding of the problem. I was par-ticularly glad to have an opportunity to say a few words, not only on this problem, but on the problem created by the work of mar-

After dinner last night, the same subject was brought up by a and there has high, the same subject was brought up y a lady who felt that many young girls who really did not have to work were doing so because they were bored with society. It seems to me that the challenge to these girls, who have had a good education, and presumably have some capital, is to do productive work which will employ other people. They have a right to work, but they have an obligation to make that work produce jobs for others.

My daughter and I spent two hours this morning with the WPA

My daughter and I spent two hours this morning with the WPA state administrator, Mr. Abel, and the NYA state administrator, Mr. Binns. They were very kind and made out an itinerary so that we would not have to cover the same ground twice. Much of the WPA and NYA work has been done in conjunction with the state university. A number of these projects are so original that I find myself wanting to tell you much more than space permits.

One WPA project studies the effect of water in a flood area and sets up in miniature the real conditions, so that everything may be worked out before any actual work is done.

There is an educational research project which seems very interesting. When they have accumulated their information, they should know that teachers are good in their public school system and, if they have weaknesses, what their weaknesses are. They should be able to evaluate the courses of study in the different grades and have some idea of the general results on the children.

The NYA has built the radio equipment and a soundproof studio for the university broadcasting station. This gives the boys actual construction experience during their period of education and will provide work for the girls on programs.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.
When Marlborough Jones's mother leaves their home in Leebrook to address a convention in Cleveland, she is very much worried about leaving her 18-year-old son alone for the first time. Marlie assures her he won't catch cold, and that he'll eat properly, and remember all her other advice, but she insists on asking Judy Miller, the girl next door, to run in daily to see that her tall handsome boy is all right. Marlie says Judy has enough to do helping out in her father's drugstore but drops the matter when his mother seems about on the verge of tears. When Judy does drop in the next day with a bowl of hot soup, she finds him eating a huge onion sandwich. There is laughing and banter and it' is evident that the boy and girl like each other. He promises to drop in at the drugstore after supper for a soda. When he goes bathing in the lake he does not join the other young ter Lisa Loring drops in and asks him casually to come to her home that evening to meet Kentucky Louellan, of Louisville. This is part of a well thought out plan. When Lisa learned from the departing Mrs. Jones that Marlborough was to be alone, she thought of making use of the handsome Jones boy in enertaining Tucky. Her only fear is that Marlie will not "loosen up" and spend money on Tucky although he has a hundred thousand dollars left him by his father. Bashful, Marlie wants to refuse but Lisa smiles him into accepting the invitation.

The name "Pacific" means "peaceful," and was given by Magellan because he happened to meet calm weather during early weeks of his voyage across the great ocean. It would be a mistake, however, to suppose that the Pacific is always peaceful. Far from it! Often there are fierce storms. In the China sea, typhoons are feared with good reason. During the winter season, it is rare for a journey across the north Pacific to be made in good weather all the way.

Drop in Speculative Interest Believed Cause of Stock Decline

Money Bonds' Resistance Is Business Trends Among Favorable Features, Says Hughes.

By GEORGE T. HUGHES. (Copyright, 1938, for The Constitution and North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

Friday came without adequate excuse in the outside developments There was nothing alarming from Europe. The speech of the ed a sharp decline on the "big British prime minister, Neville board," spread to all groups. a little stronger perhaps than had been expected, but it gave no hint of anything immediate in the way of a new crisis. On the other hand, the new American ambassador, Joseph P. Kennedy, speaking before the American Club in London, went on record as advising his countrymen that they should stop worrying over Europe, for, in his opinion, there is going to be no war, at least this

News From Washington. From Washington, the news was encouraging on balance. The senate finance committee voted to the undistributed profits tax, instead of merely modifying it as the house had proposed. Other signs of a disposition to relax restrictions on business were in evidence. For the administration, it was announced that a plan providing government aid to industry, especially the smaller enter-prises, was under discussion.

The railroad problem is as far to report February earnings showed huge losses in net com-pared with a year ago, but that is an old story, too, and there were one or two unexpectedly good statements. Meanwhile, the special committee appointed by the President to draw up a plan for vorable British reply would

Nevertheless, the market behaved as though the whole ecoply would be sent to Washington nomic outlook had suddenly be-come hopeless, than which noth-years has adhered to a policy of ing could be farther from the affording asylum to political refutruth. The explanation is not an gees. we have to contend with a liqui-dating movement which has become too strong to be checked un-til it has burned itself out.

No Reason for Drop. There is no effective opposition for reasons that are well known. The speculative interest has been driven into hiding. In the old days, a sharp decline on increasing volume following months of sagging prices would have been taken as the culmination of the decline. Then there would surely have been speculative support. The speculator would have bought, feeling that, in the event he was wrong, he could shift the burden other speculator and to some othe Under those conditions, he would assume the risk which no one else would take, but now the market is too thin and the volume is too light for him to feel that avenue of escape would be left open. Moreover, speculation itself is considered detrimental to the public welfare. the public welfare.

The renegade white man clutched his rifle by the barrel, and waited. His plan was simple. When Tarzan arrived, one blow of the rifle butt would knock him unconscious. the helpless ape-man into the hands of the savages

To Mary he would explain that Tarzan had attacked him. Several times before he had tried to impress upon her that the ape-man was in league with the blacks. Jeff chuckled evilly. Luck was with him. A vast fortune and the girl he wanted were within his grasp.

Tarzan heard Jeff's answering call. He was pleased he had found the fugitives so easily, before they had fallen afoul of some jungle menace. And now he set out unerringly toward the spot wh the voice had come, never suspecting Jeff Biggers' trap.

Fred H. Jones Tells Local Members Roosevelt Was 'Very Good Initiate.'

Fred H. Jones, supreme chancellor of the Knights of Pythias, who initiated President Roosevelt into the order two years ago. spoke in an Atlanta hotel last night on ways of increasing the work of the fraternal order.

In a conversation before he spoke to a joint meeting of the three Atlanta Knights of Pythias lodges, Mr. Jones said that "the President was a very good initiate." The presidential rite took place in the White House on February 19, 1936. "Mr. Rooseevlt learned more

Huey Long's Brother In Line for Governor

By the Associated Press. A brother of the late Sen-ator Huey P. Long may become Governor of Louisiana.

The possibility developed in speculation yesterday over gubernatorial campaign in the south, already marked by a Democratic feud in Tennessee and a South Carolina race crowded by seven winter-book entries.

Earl Long is the man of the hour at the Baton Rouge statehouse, built in the Kingfish's administration. He is lieutenant governor.

Richard W. Leche, the Governor, has been mentioned frequently for appointment to a newly created federal judgeship in the eastern district of Louisiana. President Roosevelt signed the judgeship bill last Friday. Leche is a New Deal adherent.
